

Bias Prevention Education Committee

Rutgers is a diverse community committed to academic excellence and social justice, where educational opportunity is afforded to students regardless of race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender expression and identity, disability, marital, or veteran status.

Cross-cultural interaction enhances your overall campus experience. According to University President Richard L. McCormick, "learning is best accomplished in a diverse, multicultural setting that is characterized by mutual respect and the free exchange of ideas."

Despite our best efforts to foster mutual respect, acts of bias and hate will occur. We encourage you to join us in taking a stand against such acts. If you experience or witness an act of bias on campus, the Bias Prevention Education Committee is here to offer support, assistance, and education. Visit us at <http://socialjustice.rutgers.edu> for more information on reporting incidents.
